Karanji Lake boating stopped

Water level depleting before summer

Mysuru, Feb.13 (MTY&BCT)- Boating inside the picturesque Karanji Lake has been stopped. Reason: Lack of sufficient water. The boating activity has been stopped in early February, much before the beginning of the summer season putting a huge question mark on the survival of migratory and other birds that roost in the lake precincts.

Boats that usually ferried people around the Lake have been brought to the shore as the water level in the Lake is fast depleting. Confirming this to Star of Mysore, Zoo Executive Director Ajit M. Kulkarni has said that the Zoo management had taken a decision to stop boating activity and it has been stopped from Feb.8.

"A certain depth of water is required for boating and we have a situation now where the water level is drastically depleting. Also, the people who run the boating activity after taking tenders told us that the water level was too low and boats got stuck in the slush and silt. So we have stopped boating till the Lake is filled up and we will have to wait for the rains to come," he said.

Bird-lovers said that the water level usually depletes in Karanji Lake by the end of summer as there are many water inlets to the Lake. The boating activity too is usually suspended either in peak summer or by the end of summer season. There were summer seasons where boating activity continued in the Lake as there was sufficient water. This, however, is not the case this year as the water level has gone down early.

The major source of water for the Lake is rain water from Chamundi Hill. As rainfall was scanty last year, there was limited water flow from the Hill. Stopping of boating activity at the Lake, a perfect spot for bird watchers, picnickers and nature lovers, has disappointed visitors as they have for the time being lost the opportunity of boating.

Karanji Lake Nature Park is one of the tourist hot-spots in city. Zoo and Karanji Lake are located in a vast area of 165 acres of which 75 percent of the area is filled with greenery that acts as a lung space besides providing shelter to a lot of birds and butterflies.

Gnawing generation gap

Among the many laments that we hear from people of earlier generations a common concern is about the values of this land of rich culture and heritage getting sidelined and even ridiculed by the young folk. The ridicule seems to be veiled as the present generation fires the question: What values are they talking about and, even conceding the value of the values pointed out by the well-meaning elderly, the young lot, barring exceptions, is not quite convinced about the relevance of most of the values to the fast-changing ways of life all over the world, including India's urban spaces. The generational gap is the stark difference of views and opinions between one generation and another regarding beliefs and customs that have centuries of history. The perceived gap between younger people and their parents as well as grandparents is gnawing to the point of causing distress in both camps. The gamut of tastes for food, attire, entertainment and so on as well as social and cultural norms that find favour with modern-day youth don't seem to go down well with old timers in today's society.

Thanks to the clear differences in their experiences of life, however brief, behaviour patterns, responses to events in open space, habits and so on, the elderly and the young folk don't seem to understand each other's viewpoints and preferences. The former had their times, aver the latter, who are in no frame of mind to make time for hearing the advisory from the fraternity of past generations.

One can effortlessly point out a plethora of factors that people of several decades past lived in ways that would be deemed outdated, if not primitive. They walked long distances to reach their destinations, they invariably consumed freshly prepared food, they drew water from wells and river beds to meet their daily needs of water for drinking and other purposes, they built unostentatious buildings for dwelling, they wore fabrics made of only natural fibres such as cotton, silk and woollen, they avoided their outdoor activities in the dark for the sake of safety, they tended to their livestock with utmost care amidst themselves in home environment, they set the norms of behaviour and interacting among members of family and residents in their neighbourhood..., and more limited by only one's imagination and recollecting from the past.

To cut a long story short, the role of technology and the infinite use of electricity as well as fossil fuels in all spheres of human activity from dawn to dusk is changing the ways of life from what they used to be to what they are in our times, added to the compulsions of demand for life-supporting resources far out-stripping their availability, cannot be over-exaggerated. The gnawing generational gap shall witness yawning with the passage of time.

Sister: OK, let's see if you've done your homework. What's the ABC of politics? Brother: Uh, lemme see. A is for Aam Admi...*

Sister (cutting him short): Oof, oh. Forget all that nonsense about Aam Admi. A is for Apni, as in Apni Family, which means Mummyji, you, me, Hubbyji, and my two Balbacheji. Brother (anxiously): Hey, you've forgotten Pidiji! Sister: OK, OK, Pidiji too. Now, what does B stand for?*

Brother: Budget? Bimaru States? Sister: Wrong, both times. B stands for Baqwasbaji, which is what wins elections. What does C stand for?*

Brother: Country ? Constitution? Sister: Again you're talking nonsense. When are you going to learn anything? C stands for the most important thing in getting votes: Caste. — Jug Suraiya in The Times of India*

Artist draws different portraits at same time

Amsterdam: Dutch artist Rjacenna has the ability to draw pencil portraits with both hands and at the same time.

Rajacenna first made news headlines in 2010, as a child prodigy able to create incredibly realistic portraits of celebrities with a simple pencil. She has been honing her skills as a photorealistic drawing artist ever since, and somewhere along the way she discovered that she could draw just as well with her left hand as she did with her right. Not only that, but she could draw with both hands at the same time, somehow distributing her attention to two separate and completely different portraits.

At 18 years of age, this young girl had already done modelling for various brands, had starred in films, soap-operas and tv-series, and had been the host of Kinderjournaal, the first Dutch web-tv for kids. Now she was turning out to be an insanely talented artist as well.

The one-handed professional boxer

Athens: Vaggelis Chatzis, whose right forearm was amputated from below the elbow when he was only a baby, grew up to become the world's only one-handed professional boxer.

Chatzis was born with a cancerous tumour in his right hand which would have ultimately killed him if doctors didn't amputate part of his arm to stop the cells from spreading. He grew up into a very angry young man, and that anger got him in a lot of trouble. But then he discovered boxing and he fell in love.

Despite missing a hand, Vaggelis Chatzis showed a real talent for boxing, which combined with his innate determination to overcome challenges made him a force to be reckoned with in the ring. His trainers found a way to attach a boxing glove to his shorter arm, so even though he had just one hand, he could actually punch with both.

Paint barricades with red reflecting stripes

Sir,

The initiative taken by the new City Police Commissioner K.T. Balakrishna directing to repair and paint all barricades deserve full appreciation (Road barricades get a makeover — SOM dated Feb.3). Most of the barricades in and around Mysuru are in a very bad shape and they are not visible during night hours and invite avoidable accidents.

Hope the Commissioner will get the barricades painted with red reflecting stripes, thus enhancing its visibility during night hours and thereby preventing the motorists hitting the barricades itself.

Also the Commissioner should get the RCC road dividers painted with red reflecting "X" mark on either ends of the RCC dividers.

Or else, reflecting caution boards should be fixed on either ends of the RCC barricades to caution the motorists. The RCC dividers fixed at dimly lit junctions without any reflecting ends are inviting avoidable accidents.

Aadhaar Card correction a painstaking process

People, including women and elderly queue up before enrolment centres every day as early as 5.30 am

Aadhaar Card holders standing in front of Spandana Kendra behind DC's Office as early as 5.30 am to get their Cards corrected or updated. Picture below shows the early morning crowd in front of Kaveri Grameena Bank at J.P. Nagar.

Mysuru, Feb. 13 (MTY&BCT)- More than nine years after the Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) began issuing Aadhaar Card, which has now become vital for everyone from the new-borns to super senior citizens, enrolment and correction remain a painful task for applicants.

People queue up outside Aadhaar Updating Centres, post offices, designated banks, Spandana Kendras and MysoreOne Centres across the city. Since Aadhaar is made mandatory for a lot of services (36 government services including scholarships, caste certificate, income certificate, family tree, cultivation certificate) including for filing income tax returns, these centres have started squeaking under the pressure of increased footfalls.

Following complaints from readers, Star of Mysore visited several Aadhaar Updating Centres in city and found long queues in front of them and people were eager to update the details on their Aadhaar Card. Leaving all important works, people visit the centres and apply for corrections in spelling of their name, or adding surname, mobile number, email ID and month and day in their date of birth, etc.

At Kaveri Grameena Bank in JP Nagar, people line up every day except holidays. The queue starts at 5.30 am while the centre opens only at 9.30 am. Here, the official in-charge of updation only handles 25 to 30 people per day and one person has to wait for a minimum of four to five hours to get his Aadhaar Card updated. The rest of the people in the queue are told to come the next day.

The forms to be filled to update the details are issued only after 3 pm and the forms are not accepted the same day. Applicants are told to come the next day. Every day, the cycle repeats, said one of the applicant who has been standing in the queue since last Friday to update his surname.

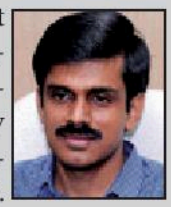
"My Aadhaar card was made in 2015 but I forgot to mention my surname. So, I am here to add my surname," said Ramakrishna, who works in a private firm. "Linking Aadhaar with PAN has become compulsory, so I came here, applying leave. The process is very slow and also we are waiting for more than three hours, but still my work is not completed," said Srikanth, who works in a private firm.

At MysoreOne centre in Ramakrishnanagar, people start standing in queues from 7 am or earlier, to get application which will be issued only at 10 am, that too only for 25 persons. So one is not sure of getting an application even after standing in queue for three hours. "It is very sad to see women carrying babies stand in queue as early as 6 am. If the work is guaranteed, it is fine. But here there is so much of uncertainty," said A.M. Erappa, a resident of J.P. Nagar.

At the Spandana Kendra behind the DC Office, the scene is no different. Here too, men, women and the elderly come as early as 5.30 am to either get enrolled or correct the details in the card. Only 25 to 30 cards are handled every day and the rest of the crowd is sent back with the next date which can either come the next day or a couple of days later.

At one centre, only one person handles the crowd. People say if a couple of counters are set up inside, then there will be considerable respite to the people. Added to this delay is frequent glitches in the servers and due to this, the already slow process is further slowed down.

Many Aadhaar Cards have a lot of errors due to technical reasons and instead of "son of", "wife of", "daughter of", only "care of" has been mentioned. This is an anomaly and once such Aadhaar Cards are issued, applicants have to queue up before the correction/ updating centres.



"The issue of ever-increasing rush at Aadhaar enrolment and correction centres across city and even at Spandana Kendra behind the DC's Office has come to my notice. I will call a meeting of officials concerned soon to minimise the waiting period. I will try my best to solve at least the issues that can be sorted out locally in coordination with the officers."

— Abhiram G. Sankar, Deputy Commissioner, Mysuru

"I have directed the officials to speed up the Aadhaar Card enrolment, correction and updating process. Along with government offices and post offices even banks have been authorised to carry out the process. We will soon hold a meeting with the Lead Bank officers to smoothen the process."

— B.R. Poornima, Additional Deputy Commissioner

In this week's Pet Talk,
Maneka tells how stressful it is for a pet to travel and how to make the journey more comfortable

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

Do flights allow pet animals to travel in the cabin with the owner?

Even though regulations regarding pet travel in flights in India are largely similar, there are a few points which differ from airline to airline. Flights like Jet Airways, Vistara, Air India, Spice Jet allow pets 8 weeks and older while some airlines only accept animals 12 weeks and older. Pregnant animals and suckling offspring are generally not allowed on the plane. While certain aggressive animals and cross-breeds are also off-limits in airplanes.

Only Air India is known to allow pets in the cabin area, while others transport the pets in the freight area in pressurised temperature controlled areas. But, it is essential to check-up and clarify details regarding the policy about animals on-board with the airline themselves. Make sure to ask all the necessary questions, regarding storage, condition for travelling requirements and any doubts, well in advance.

Is it safe to let animals travel in the baggage compartment of flights?

It is generally safe, but there have been a cases of animals lost, or misplaced, or death, while travelling. Jet Air and Air India have both had dogs die and cats escape. They always look for excuses not to pay compensation and unfortunately, after the initial moaning of the owner, none of them follow it up legally. I would not advise dogs with flat faces, like pugs, to be taken in the luggage.

How do I prepare my pet for air travel?

To travel by flight you will need to transport your pet in an International Air Transport Association (IATA) approved cage, which means a cage where your pet can comfortably stand up and sleep in and also comfortably take a round. You will also need to get health certificate, and rabies vaccination certificates, from your vet. Additional things to pack with you would be tags, or identification for your pet, basic medication and some treats to give when your pet lands.

Also ensure that you get your pet checked up by your Vet before a flight. Your Vet can also provide you more information about what to prepare and what to expect when travelling with your pet.

Can I travel with my pets by train?

Yes. Even though the Indian Railways only has a fixed policy for dogs, it allows other common domestic animals on-board as well. You can carry your pet with you if you are travelling in First Class Coupe, otherwise your pet will have to travel in the luggage car. However, you are liable for feeding and taking care of your pet. For detailed information and rules, contact Indian Railway and find out the details in advance, as some trains do not have dog vans.

Do I have to sedate my pet before travelling by air?

No. This is not recommended at all. If your pet is sedated there is a risk of him/her waking up mid-flight, which can be a source of stress or shock for your pet. However, in some extreme cases anti-anxiety medications can be prescribed to your pet only by recommendation of the vet. Please do not self-medicate your pet without professional guidance.

Is it stressful for a pet to travel? How can I make the journey more comfortable for my pet?

Yes, it can be stressful for a pet to travel, as it is an unnatural experience. Air pressure alone is enough to induce anxiety even in human beings. Furthermore, travelling exposes your pet to new sounds, smells and strange people. Additionally, your pet has to stay cooped up in a cage for a long time. Don't feed your pet immediately before a flight. Take your pets for a walk, or some exercise, before the flight to help them release their energy and calm down slightly. Most importantly, keep yourself calm, as your pet can most likely sense your worry or anxiety.

Kutrooo... Kutrooo...

Dawn, in a tropical forest, light wooded tree groves in farming locales and even our urban gardens with avenue trees, is really a sight to see. This sight, however beautiful and mystical, is incomplete without the high resonating familiar Kutrooo... Kutrooo... Kutrooo.. call of the Green Bird, about the size of a Myna — the 'White-Cheeked Barbet - Megalaima viridis' of the Megalaimidae family of birds as it is called in Ornithology.

There are in all 11 species in this family inhabiting the country, the largest and most colourful of them The Great Barbet and the smallest of them all The Copper-smith Barbet. This Green Bird, with a brownish head and white cheeks, is often heard than sighted. It has a high-pitched, resonating call, which is very familiar to many early morning joggers and walkers. The repeated call of these birds are perhaps the most highly recorded of all bird calls, in any movie or slide show, whether in a setting of urban garden or a wild life picturing in the Rain Forests. the call recording of these birds are indispensable. The visuals are incomplete without the call suggesting a break of dawn. The forest feel is through these birds' call.

Comfortable, both in heavy wooded forests and also our urban home gardens, the White-cheeked Barbet, thrives well on the fig fruits and insects. It loves many orchard fruits too, but never considered a pest. It has a special liking for the Sapota fruit and Guavas also attract them. In fact these birds are very bold, though wary of humans, and accept any fruit placed in the garden or stuck to small tree in the gardens. Water is a dire necessity for these birds and a good earthen bird-bath is sure to attract them for a drink and bath. However, they prefer the water source hung from a low branch to a ground level one. Once familiar with the water source, these birds can be sighted arriving at a regular time of the day. Once at dawn, again at around 11:00 before noon and finally in the early evening before dark. It's a delight to offer them water and watch them at it.

The Barbets nest in tree cavities, either natural or dug-up by the nesting birds themselves. They nest regularly in the same nest hole, renovating the nest every season.

The courtship of bachelor birds is really a wonder in the Birds Kingdom. When a young male sets his eyes and mind on a female, whom he thinks is the Most Beautiful Lady Barbet in the world, approaches her with a fig berry (Aladha hannu - Ficus benghalensis) and perches close to her and offers it to her. The young Lady Barbet, if she finds his proposal worthy, if she finds him trustworthy, if she finds him capable enough to father and bring up her children, all thoughts decided by her intuitions, will hop closer to him and accept the berry from his beak. This small gesture bonds them for life.

A marriage solemnised by nature and both go about setting up home, in a pre-selected tree cavity or a partially excavated nest hole by the male. Then both work towards completing the home.

In a few days time, the family starts with a clutch of 3-4 white oval small eggs. Both parents incubate the eggs for 15-17 days. The female incubates all through the night and the male for long hours in the day.

Once the chicks are born, both parents share all the offspring raising chores, until the young are fledged and go on their own to lead their independent life.

May the Kutrooo... Kutrooo... call of the Barbet resonate in the trees and also in the filmed cinemas forever.

The Barbets, though placed under the Least Concern in the IUCN Red List, let us show All Concern for the well-being of these beautiful birds.

Aesthetically designed Circle on Vishwamanava Double Road

Mysuru, Feb.13 (RK&NNN)- The work on the Circle near Bake Point in Saraswathipuram (Vishwamanava Double Road), which was going on for quite some time, has been completed and is open for free flow of traffic.

When the work on the beautification of the Circle began, there were lot of disgruntled voices as many felt that the Circle at this point was inappropriate as it would occupy a lot of space thus inconveniencing the smooth flow of traffic.

However, the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) was confident of the aesthetic look that the Circle would get, once it was completed. The area comes under Ward No.21 on Vishwamanava Double Road and the work began two months ago.

The work on the Circle paved with cobblestones and an ornamental heritage lamp post in the centre was taken up at a cost of Rs.15 lakh.

Zonal Office 4 Development Officer B.R. Nalini and Assistant Engineer Sharath Gowda were supervising the work.

Civil Contractor Balasubramanya Raje Urs was awarded the contract by the MCC through tender process and he completed the work in the stipulated time, said Nalini.

The electric power lines have already been drawn to the heritage lamps and only the light bulbs need to be fixed which will be done shortly, she added.

The Bake Point Circle is one more addition to the various Circles across Mysuru which enhances the appeal of the heritage city, said the residents of the area.

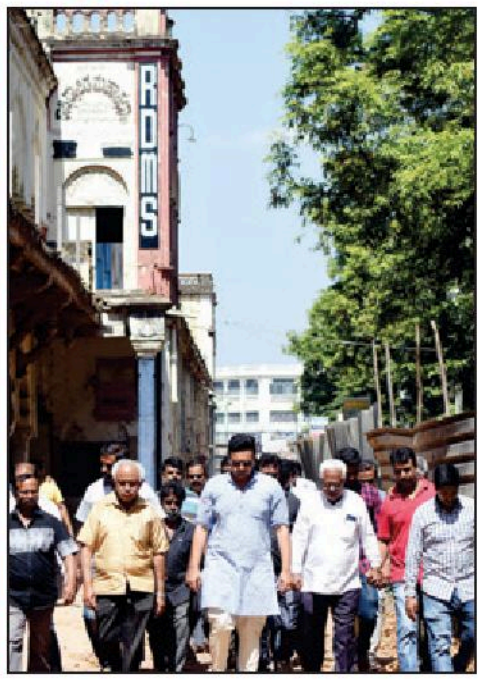
Yaduveer visits Devaraja Market, Lansdowne Building

Lends support for the cause of saving both heritage structures



Mysuru, Feb.13 (RKB&NNN) - The revival of the two heritage structures — Devaraja Market and Lansdowne Building -- which were to be demolished following the decision in the Mysuru City Corporation, got a boost with the titular head of Mysore Royal Family Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar lending his support to the beleaguered shopkeepers of both the places.

After disapproving the MCC decision, Yaduveer expressed his solidarity with the tenants by visiting Lansdowne Building and Devaraja Market buildings yesterday. The public and shopkeepers who accompanied him on his padayatra, urged him to save both the heritage structures as it was his ancestors who were responsible for their construction.

He first visited Devaraja Market around noon where he inspected the North Gate entrance of the Market which had earlier collapsed and some parts of which were demolished. He was accompanied by the President of Devaraja Market Tenants Association S. Mahadev who explained to him about the condition of the shops and their battle for preservation of the heritage market.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Mahadev said that Yaduveer who spent nearly three hours inspecting both the heritage structures assured them of his full cooperation to retain both the heritage structures by speaking to the Deputy Commissioner, the Mayor and also to the State Government.

"The fact that the royal family has extended support to our cause is a welcome sign. He has clearly told us that heritage structures like this must not be destroyed and he will fight for the cause and try to see that the buildings are not razed," said Mahadev. Yaduveer, addressing the media on Monday, had said that several heritage structures in Jaipur and other cities which were on the verge of collapse were restored and are being used for commercial purposes and the same should be done with Lansdowne and Devaraja Market buildings.

MCCI bats for restoration

Meanwhile, the Mysore Chamber of Commerce and Industry (MCCI), expressing concern over the move of the MCC to raze the structures, lent its support for the cause of retaining both the heritage buildings.

Mysuru is known worldwide for its art, culture and tourism. Added to this the many heritage structures that the city is dotted with is the major attraction for both Indian and foreign visitors. There are thousands of families depending on tourism. Hence, the decision to raze the structures stating that it is impossible to preserve them and instead build new ones in its place is not correct, the MCCI said.

The experts have maintained that the restoration of both the structures can be done and once it is completed, for the next 50 years the buildings will stand without any problems. Officials concerned must hold a meeting with heritage experts and save both the heritage structures, said MCCI Secretary Satish in a press release.

Audio Gate: BJP walks out of meeting with Speaker

Bengaluru, Feb. 13 (KMS&DM)- The meeting convened by Assembly Speaker K.R. Ramesh Kumar with Opposition leader B.S. Yeddyurappa and Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy at his chamber at Vidhana Soudha this morning to discuss the way on how the controversial audio clip should be probed, was a total failure as the Opposition BJP walked out of the meeting twice.

K.R. Ramesh Kumar

The 'Audio Gate,' in which an audio chip allegedly features Yeddyurappa and Devadurga BJP legislator Shivanagowda Naik trying to lure the son of Gurmitkal JD(S) MLA Naganagouda Kandakur by offering a huge sum of money and also contained a claim that Speaker Ramesh Kumar had been bribed to accept resignations of disgruntled MLAs and thus pave the way for toppling the H.D. Kumaraswamy headed coalition Government, has caused ripples in State politics over the past few days.

The Assembly proceedings on Tuesday witnessed the Government and the Opposition locking horns over the audio clip, with the ruling JD(S)-Congress Coalition and the Speaker maintaining that a SIT should probe the clip, while the BJP insisted on setting up of a House Committee.

Following the imbroglio, Ramesh Kumar convened a meeting this morning. While the BJP members led by B.S. Yeddyurappa insisted on setting up of a House Committee, the ruling coalition partners insisted on a SIT (Special Investigation Team) probe. Even as the coalition partners continued to insist on SIT probe, BJP members walked out of the meeting midway.

Speaker Ramesh Kumar convened a second round of meeting a little over an hour of after the first meeting. But this meeting too failed as the ruling coalition partners and the Opposition BJP stuck to their guns.

After the second round of talks too failed, the Legislature session began. The BJP is likely to stage an indefinite dharna in the well of the Assembly if its demand for a House Committee probe is not conceded.

Meanwhile, all the four Congress Legislators — Ramesh Jarkiholi, Umesh Jadhav, B, Nagendra and Mahesh Kumthalli, who had failed to attend the Congress Legislature Party meeting recently after defying the party's whip, turned up at Vidhana Soudha this morning to take part in the session

Special educators sensitised on importance of Yoga for specially-abled children

Mysuru, Feb. 13 (PM&DM)- A three-day National seminar-cum-workshop on 'Importance of Yoga in the education of children with Special needs', began at All India Institute of Speech and Hearing (AIISH) in Manasagangothri here yesterday. The programme, organised by the Department of Special Education, AIISH, is funded by Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR).

Speaking after inaugurating the workshop, Prof. Y. Sreekanth, Principal, Regional Institute of Education (RIE), Mysuru, said that yoga has a history of over 3,000 years and it was important that we make yoga as a part of our daily life.

Pointing out that yoga plays a significant role in keeping one's mind and physique clean and healthy, he said that the world is now realising the importance of yoga. Noting that yoga will certainly increase one's intellectual capacity, he said that practising yoga helps in bringing about a miraculous change in one's mental and physical health.

Referring to a survey conducted between 2002 and 2009, wherein it was found that visual disability was on the rise, although other sorts of ailments were on the decline among children, Prof. Sreekanth said visual problems among children can be attributed to addiction to gadgets such as cellphones, TV, computer etc.

Highlighting the role of teachers in sensitising children with special needs on the importance of yoga, he said that such workshops provide a perfect platform for the teachers to exchange ideas and information.

AIISH Director Prof. M. Pushpavathi presided. Prof. P. Manjula, Dr. Alok Kumar Upadhyay and others were present.

Double Billing Scam: MCC Probe Panel goes into details

Finds that Rs. 52 lakh was billed after pouring jelly stones and asphalting the already asphalted MG Road

Mysuru, Feb. 13 (RK&BCT)- The Probe Committee which was constituted by the Mysuru City Corporation in connection with MG Road Double Billing Scam where Rs.1.4 crore was allegedly siphoned off by submitting two bills for the same work has found that Rs. 52 lakh was billed after pouring jelly stones and levelling the road that was already asphalted.

The Committee that has been holding marathon meetings since the last two days, summoned records and found that a good and asphalted road was re-asphalted and a bill of Rs. 52 lakh was claimed by the accused. Based on the bill, the MCC had sanctioned the money.

The Committee is led by Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath. The complainant in this case is Council Opposition Leader B.V. Manjunath against MCC Assistant Executive Engineer Sunil Babu, MCC Zone-1 Office Junior Engineer M.N. Mohanakumari and contractor Karigowda who are in the dock for alleged misappropriation.

The bills submitted to the MCC also details out other works including laying of interlocking tiles on both sides of the MG Road worth Rs. 29,95,000, 4ft wide 636 concrete slabs worth Rs. 15 lakh, line painting on the sides of the road worth Rs. 9.8 lakh and fixing reflector studs on the middle of the road worth Rs. 8 lakh.

The MCC had constituted this Committee as the leader of Opposition B.V. Manjunath raised allegations over this issue at the MCC Council meeting held on Jan.30 and demanded a detailed probe in this regard. What surprised the Committee was that as soon as the issue was raised in the Council, the reflector studs were fixed on the middle of the road overnight in a bid to cover up the scam.

During the meeting of the Probe Committee where MCC Assistant Executive Engineer Sunil Babu, MCC Zone-1 Office Junior Engineer M.N. Mohanakumari were present, Mohanakumari told the Committee that since MCC Executive Engineer Ramakrishna was pressurising her to submit the bills for the works , the bills were hurriedly submitted. She clarified that she was not at fault as she was working under pressure to submit bills immediately.

The Committee then asked Mohanakumari to give her statement in writing but she did not do so giving some excuse. The Committee though decided to inspect the MG Road yesterday for first-hand information on the road and interlocking works, it decided to conduct the inspection on Saturday (Feb. 16) as PWD Engineer Prakash was not available till Saturday.

Judicial custody of accused extended till Feb. 26

Advocates from Virajpet submit arguments favouring main accused through post

Chamarajanagar, Feb. 13 (SS&BCT)- The judicial custody of the four accused in the Kichuguth Sulwadi Maramma Temple poisoning incident, where over 17 people lost their lives and many people scarred for life, has been extended to Feb. 26.

The four accused — Salur Mutt Junior Pontiff Immadi Mahadevaswamy alias Devanna Buddhi, Manager of the Temple Madesha, his wife Ambika and former employee of the Temple Doddaiah -- were produced before the Chamarajanagar District and Sessions Court yesterday. They were produced through video conferencing facility from the Mysuru Central Jail.

Over 17 persons were killed and more than 120 fell ill after consuming the prasadam laced with pesticide on Dec.14, 2018 at Maramma Temple in Sulwadi.

Hearing the accused, Sessions Court Judge J. Basavaraja read the bail arguments submitted in favour of Immadi Mahadevaswamy sent through post by advocates from Virajpet in Kodagu.

The arguments were sent by mail to the Court and the advocates abstained from the hearing.

The Judge later questioned the other accused Madesha, his wife Ambika and Doddaiah whether any advocates were representing them. They replied that they had hired advocate Durgaprasad from Bengaluru and he would submit his arguments on Wednesday (Feb. 13). The judge then extended the bail hearing to Feb. 26.

Advocates Appanna, H.U. Sudheesh and A.M. Lohit from Virajpet have agreed to argue in favour of main accused Immadi Mahadevaswamy. This was informed to the Court during the last hearing but the advocates did not attend the Court to represent their client. This time too, the advocates did not appear before the Court but instead sent their arguments through post.

Advocates' Associations of Chamarajanagar and Mysuru had decided not to appear for the accused in the Court and the bail application moved by Kodagu advocates have raised brows.

Gang-rape case shifted to Hullahalli Station

Arrested accused confesses to crime but denies involvement of his friends; Police await medical reports

Mysuru, Feb. 13 (RK&BCT)- The Nazarbad Police have transferred the alleged gang-rape case to Hullahalli Police Station in Nanjangud Taluk.

A 20-year-old girl, a call centre employee and a resident of J.P. Nagar, had complained at the Nazarbad Police that last week her friend Chirag and three others took turns to rape her at a secluded spot on T. Narasipur Road.

She had called Chirag on the night of Feb. 3 and asked him to come and pick her up from the entrance of Chamundi Hill at Thavarekatte Arch Gate at around 9.30 pm. She told the Police that she had been there to have pani-puri and as it was dark, she had sought a drop to home from Chirag.

The girl alleged that after picking her up, Chirag drove the vehicle for some distance and then stopped where three of his friends got into the car. Later, they took her to a secluded spot and raped her.

Narrating her ordeal, the girl, in her Police complaint, has alleged that Chirag and friends then allegedly injured her on various parts of her body using a blade. Based on the complaint, Police arrested Chirag from Bengaluru on Feb. 9.

Chirag is a resident of Madhugiri taluk in Tumakuru district. He was arrested at Bengaluru Airport and has now been sent to judicial custody. In his statement to the Police, Chirag admitted that he had raped the girl but none of his friends were involved in the crime.

As his statement and the complaint filed by the girl differed on the number of people involved in the crime, the Police are now awaiting the medical test report.

The medical test was conducted on the girl as soon as the crime was reported.

Nazarbad Police conducted the mahazar of the crime scene and has transferred the case to Hullahalli Police Station as the crime was committed in that Station's jurisdiction.

Girl commits suicide

Arpitha

Hunsur, Feb. 13 (KK&KS)- Dejected over her lover allegedly deserting her, a 21-year-old girl has reportedly committed suicide by hanging self at her house in Kattemalalawadi village in the taluk on Tuesday.

The deceased girl is Arpitha, daughter of Basavaraju and Kanthamma couple of the village. She was pursuing her 2nd year BA course at the women's college in Hunsur.

It is learnt that Arpitha and one Lokesh Gowda, a resident of Store Street were in love and Lokesh had reportedly promised to marry her.

In the meantime, Lokesh tried to distance himself from Arpitha about two months ago. Arpitha, who informed the matter to her parents, also knocked the doors of the Police Station. When the Police summoned Lokesh to the Police Station, he is said to have assured the Police that he would marry Arpitha in the month of January. But as Lokesh did not turn up last month, the dejected Arpitha committed suicide yesterday.

Arpitha's grandfather Doddasiddaiah had passed away last week and the death ceremony was to be held today (Feb. 13). Her parents and other family members had gone to Hunsur to get necessary materials for the ceremony yesterday and Arpitha committed suicide when she was along at the house.

Following a complaint by Arpitha's parents, Hunsur Rural Police have booked a case and are investigating.

WORD OF THE DAY

Mettlesome

Pronunciation: MET-ul-sum.

Meaning: Full of vigor and stamina, spirited.

Origin: The 17th-century adjective mettlesome (popularly used of spirited horses) sometimes appeared as the variant metalsome. That's not surprising. In the 16th century and for some time after, mettle was a variant spelling of metal — that is, the word for substances such as gold, copper, and iron. (Metal itself dates from the 14th century and descends from a Greek term meaning "mine" or "metal.") The 16th century was also when metal — or mettle — acquired the figurative sense of "spirit," "courage," or "stamina." However, by the early 18th century, dictionaries were noting the distinction between metal, used for the substance, and mettle, used for "spirit," so that nowadays the words mettle and mettlesome are rarely associated with metal.

Example: He had hurt riding over rough terrain on mettlesome horses.

THE ODD WORD

Manichaeism

Religious or philosophical dualism.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Make haste

Meaning: Act quickly.

Origin: This is an old phrase and was first found in the works of Martin Luther. Miles Coverdale's translation of a very excellent and swete exposition upon the two and twentye Psalme of David, 1537, includes the line. "Make haist (o Lorde) to helpe me." Shakespeare later used it in King John, 1595 (and in several other plays). Nay, but make haste; the better foot before.

O, let me have no subject enemies, when adverse foreigners affright my towns, with dreadful pomp of stout invasion! Be Mercury, set feathers to thy heels, and fly like thought from them to me again.

Example: As Simon was under orders to make haste, some days they covered thirty miles.
